10 Things You Should Know about LBD

- LBD is the second most common form of degenerative dementia after Alzheimer's Disease (AD).
- LBD is widely under-diagnosed, and physician education is urgently needed.
- LBD has symptoms of both AD and Parkinson's disease (PD)
- Symptoms include dementia, hallucinations, unpredictable levels of cognition and attention, Parkinson-like symptoms, and sleep disorders.
- Early and accurate diagnosis is important because LBD patients react to certain medications differently than AD or PD patients.
- Traditional antipsychotic medications can cause a severe and sometimes irreversible reaction.
- Comprehensive treatment of symptoms significantly improves the quality of life for both patients and caregivers.
- LBD patients and families will need considerable resources and assistance from healthcare professionals and agencies.
- More research is urgently needed to develop better methods for diagnosis and treatment.
- The current goals of treatment are to substantially relieve symptoms and to slow disease progression.
